Pharmacies are required to pay a processing fee. Drug price fluctuations occur without notice and vary and are not instantly incorporated into the pricing tool. The final accurate price will be the amount charge by your local Pharmacy. Since we have no control over any price change and we update the pricing tool as soon as it is possible or practical and we update often, however we cannot guarantee the pricing information that is displayed or its accuracy as the price could change at any time and the pricing tool should not be relied upon as such as drug prices provided are for information purposes only.
